

Devils food – bacon wrapped jalapenos

NIBBLEDISH CONTRIBUTOR

Ingredients

green jalapenos

tub of philly's cream cheese

strips of bacon rashers (cut into thirds)

some toothpicks

Instructions

CREAM CHEESE STUFFED JALAPENO'S WRAPPED IN BACON! Mwwahhahhahah!
If this is not the devil's food, then I don't know what is. I stumbled across this recipe whilst surfing net for food I could make on a stick for my "On a Stick" house warming party. The housewarming party never eventuated, but that did not stop me from making these little suckers. AND..omg! were the deliciously evil, evil i say, even moreso sinfully addictive and easy to make.

Make as many or as little as you like folks....

Halve the jalapenos and scoop seeds and membranes out. Hint: wash hands thoroughly after this step or face the consequences (trust me, as my eye twitches whilst typing this post)

Spoon a generous amount of cream cheese into the cavity of the jalapenos.

---

---

Wrap bacon around and secure with the toothpick

Arrange on a tray and bake in oven at 200 degrees for approx 20 mins

Before serving let it cool. (Or if you're like me eat and burn the bridge of you mouth)

PS: Fantastic footy-watching-food, accompanied with ice cold beer.