Instructions

I happened to have both of my chicken n milk (almost 1 litre) to expire almost .... immediately The milk is today n chicken tomorrow. So I had to figure out some way to get this done. uhm ... chicken ... milk ??? U know I was thinking chicken cooked in milk ... like milk-stewed chicken .. just made it up I went googling for “chicken milk”, and I saw the recipe by Jamie Oliver. Oh yeah !!! He ... almost saved my life I actually just wanted to see if chicken can really be cooked in milk, and to have a general idea of how it’s like. And then, I came up w my own idea :-> Yah hay !!!

When I was “inventing” the dish, several dishes came up to my mind, for example grilled/fried chicken with five-spice, or some different versions of stewed chicken. I was also thinking that “chicken and milk” sounds kinda ... sweet and buttery, I need something tangy, something sour to give the dish a balance. Luckily I had some canned pineapple stacked in my kitchen for a while (since they had it on sale ) <--> that's perfect !!!

In the end I came up with this, chicken marinated in five-spice, pineapple juice, then stewed in milk for about 1 hr. Uhm.. it must be yummy, I thought to myself ... and indeed it was !!!!

Recipe for chicken and pineapple stewed in milk:

Methods:

- Marinate chicken w salt + sugar + pepper + five-spice + garlic + canned pineapple (w juice) for about 20-30 mins. Set aside.

Mean while, chopped the onion

- Heat pan, add 2 ts of oil + 1 tbs of butter. When oil n butter is heated, throw in the onion, cook until translucent. (The onion's gonna be caramelized later on while the chicken is cooked in the pan)

- Throw in the chicken pieces (leave the marinate liquid n the pineapple in the marinate bowl). Turn down the heat to medium-high. Brown all sides of the chicken pieces. While chicken is cook, the onion will be caramelized, turning dark brown and this will help browning the chicken as well.

- Once chicken is browned (not really cooked through), take them all out of the pan n set aside.

Throw in all the pineapple to the pan, add some salt (3/4 ts) and saute the pineapple until they turn golden-browned and the edges are slightly browned.

- Add in the chicken pieces, pour in all the marinate liquid and milk. All the liquid together should cover up the chicken.

Bring to a boil and then turn down to medium/medium high heat, keep simmering until there's only 1/3 of the liquid left in the pan. While the chicken is cooked, stir occasionally to make sure everything absorbs all the spices n tastes the same.

- When done, the chicken and pineapple should be very very tender and moist. The dish should be balanced with the saltiness, sweetness, n tanginess from the pineapple.
